

COMMUNICATION BOARD

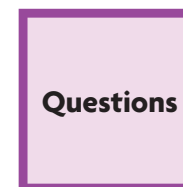

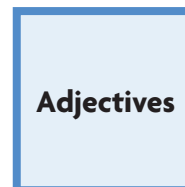

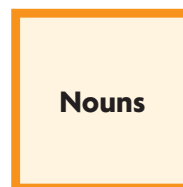

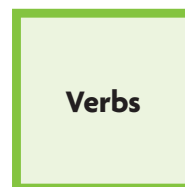

People communicate in many different ways including words, signs, sounds, gestures and pictures/symbols. This communication board offers people the opportunity to experience and interact with an alternative form of communication used by members of our community.

USING THE EVENT COMMUNICATION BOARD

Wait and give the person a chance to communicate their message. Respond straight away when the person tries to communicate, this could look like talking, pointing to the images or gestures. The board can be used as a single picture or to create sentences (e.g. “want”, “you want” or “you want more”).

MOST OF ALL HAVE FUN!

COLOUR DEFINITION

Access and Inclusion in the City

The City of Bunbury is committed to continuously improving accessibility and inclusion across all our services, facilities, and events. For more information about communication boards and the City’s commitment, visit the City of Bunbury website here.